- How many dogs do you own?
- What is the largest amount of dog that you have owned?
- What is your breeder name and web site?
- What is your USDA number?
- At what age do you allow a dog to have her first litter?
- How many litters per year do you typically get from your females?
- What is the maximum age that you breed a dog?
- Do you use rape racks?
- The AKC is to support and encourage puppy mills (large volume commercial breeders), what is your opinion of this?
- Dog auctions are notoriously known to sell old, sick, and neglected dogs. The AKC routinely attends these, and encourages the breeders to register these dogs. What is your opinion on this?
- The Hunte Corp is America's largest wholesale dog broker. The Hunt Corp is known to broker dogs from puppy mills. The AKC has close ties with the Hunte Corp. What is your opinion on this?
- In 2009, Philly.com (online news reporter), published an article stating that you are against the law to ban "Debarking" of dogs. Why?
- In the same article, Philly.com reports that you are against the anti tether or anti chain laws. These laws are designed to help insure that dogs are not neglected and you opposed them. Why?
- This year in September, Philly.com reprinted a story by the Philadelphia Inquirer, stating that you actively participated in changing the Pennsylvania law that classified a breeder as having 4 females to a classification of a breeder is someone who sells 60 dogs a year. Why?
- In the animal advocacy world, the commonly accepted number of 4 million dogs die every year because they are homeless (this does not account for the dogs killed by vets at the owner's request, or animal research labs). Having said that, why would anyone want to breed a dog, knowing that dogs are dying and every new puppy adds to the overpopulation? Chester Gipson, sometimes says that he isn't sure that there is an overpopulation because of a survey he read, the survey was that of the number of dogs that were estimated to live in American households and not the overall population of dogs in the US.
- Now that you have this position, what are your plans to improve the puppy mills?
- Based on the large amount of negative opinions about you and very little if any positive opinion, why should we trust you, after all you could be a plant by the puppy mill industry to further weaken the laws and deregulate the already weak and inefficient APHIS system?

Thank you,
